CENSURE

On April 11, 1996, the Grievance Committee of the North Carolina State Bar met and considered the grievance filed against you by the North Carolina State Bar.

Pursuant to section .0113(a) of the Discipline and Disability Rules of the North Carolina State Bar, the Grievance Committee conducted a preliminary hearing. After considering the information available to it, including your response to the letter of notice, the Grievance Committee found probable cause. Probable cause is defined in the rules as "reasonable cause to believe that a member of the North Carolina State Bar is guilty of misconduct justifying disciplinary action."

The rules provide that after a finding of probable cause, the Grievance Committee may determine that the filing of a complaint and a hearing before the Disciplinary Hearing Commission are not required and the Grievance Committee may issue various levels of discipline depending upon the misconduct, the actual or potential injury caused, and any aggravating or mitigating factors. The Grievance Committee may issue an admonition, a reprimand, or a censure.

A censure is a written form of discipline more serious than a reprimand, issued in cases in which an attorney has violated one or more provisions of the Rules of Professional Conduct and has caused significant harm or potential significant harm to a client, the administration of justice, the profession or a member of the public, but the misconduct does not require suspension of the attorney's license.

The Grievance Committee believes that a hearing before the Disciplinary Hearing Commission is not required in this case and issues this censure to you. As chairman of the Grievance Committee of the North Carolina State Bar, it is now my duty to issue this censure. I am certain that you will understand fully the spirit in which this duty is performed.

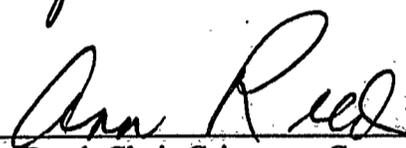

In January 1995, you commenced representation of Amanda Dalton in her efforts to seek custody of her sister's children. During the course of the attorney/client relationship with Amanda Dalton, you met with her on several occasions. Prior to August 14, 1995, you and Amanda Dalton commenced a sexual relationship. On August 14, 1995, you filed a complaint for divorce from bed and board on Amanda Dalton's behalf against her husband, Heath Dalton. That complaint requested a writ of exclusive possession of the marital home the couple had shared. On August 15, you filed an amendment to the complaint requesting a temporary restraining order against Heath Dalton because he had allegedly assaulted Amanda Dalton after learning about the complaint she had filed against him in Burke County District Court. Your having filed the complaint for divorce from bed and board after commencing the sexual relationship with Amanda Dalton allowed your personal interest to conflict with the interests of Amanda Dalton and, after Heath Dalton's discovery of the relationship, prejudiced Amanda Dalton's domestic relations case. Your conduct violated Rules 5.1(b) and 7.1(a)(3). The 5.1(b) violation could have been avoided simply by having other counsel represent her in the domestic matter.

You are hereby censured by the North Carolina State Bar for your violation of the Rules of Professional Conduct. The Grievance Committee trusts that you will ponder this censure, recognize the error that you have made, and that you will never again allow yourself to depart from adherence to the high ethical standards of the legal profession. This censure should serve as a strong reminder and inducement for you to weigh carefully in the future your responsibility to the public, your clients, your fellow attorneys and the courts, to the end that you demean yourself as a respected member of the legal profession whose conduct may be relied upon without question.

In accordance with the policy adopted October 15, 1981 by the Council of the North Carolina State Bar regarding the taxing of the administrative and investigative costs to any attorney issued a censure by the Grievance Committee, the costs of this action in the amount of $50.00 are hereby taxed to you.

Done and ordered, this 1st day of August, 1996.
