REPORT OF THE ETHICS COMMITTEE BY W. P. SANDRIDGE, CHAIRMAN

Mr. Sandridge reported that the following inquiries were considered by the Ethics Committee and that the Committee recommended the adoption of the following Opinions and Decisions: The Council adopted the following Opinions and Decisions:

CPR 58
(October 16, 1975)

Inquiry: Is it ethical for a lawyer to write and publish a pamphlet on a legal topic of interest and offer the pamphlet for sale to the public either under the author's own name or under a penname?

Opinion: The writing of legal textbooks, treatises and other legal publications by a lawyer and dignified advertisements of such publications are expressly permitted by DR2-101(B)(5). It is obvious that the authorship and sale of such pamphlet to the general public may be abused. The author should be careful to arrange the distribution so as to avoid even the appearance of solicitation of professional work. The name of the author should be accompanied only by the statement that he is a member of the Bar of his city. See Opinion No. 845.
